THE LOVE STORY OF JOHN MILTON

The Binding of the Strong

CAROLINE ATWATER MASON

¶ This authentic love-story of John Milton strongly depicts how this master poet almost lost and finally regained paradise in his romantic courtship, and as he met and finally settled the divorce question for himself. Cloth, $1.50.

Author of "A Lily of France," "The Little Green God," etc.

Three New Revell Novels Worth While

The Victor

RICHARD S. HOLMES

¶ Since the "Leather Stocking Tales" it is a question whether any American novelist has presented a more wonderful amount of thrilling incident and adventure drawn from the American backwoods. Even Eben Holden never saw life from "Hickory's" angle. The story is one of struggle, devotion and triumph, told in a vivid, fascinating style. Cloth, $1.50.

Author of "The Maid of Honor"

A Soldier of the Future

W. J. DAWSON

¶ Dr. Dawson is rated among the best of modern literary critics, and does not fall beneath his standards in his own work. His new novel touches on some live questions of the day, and is sure to create as much discussion as his earlier novel, "A PROPHET IN BABYLON." Cloth, $1.50.

Author of "Makers of English Fiction," etc.

A NEW BOOK BY H. G. WELLS

First and Last Things

A Confession of Faith and a Rule of Life

MR. WELLS sets forth with a persuasive fervor that is still quite free from dogmatic or tedious insistence, convictions and ideas which constitute his social faith, and have provided him with a rule of life. From these inspiring convictions and ideas have developed his views about man and society, and from them also have flowered the group of novels and miscellaneous writings which have proved highly entertaining, and, by infusing sweetness and light into the discussion of Socialistic questions, have done their part in civilizing Barbarian, Philistine, and Populace alike.

This volume has all the good nature, the charm, the amenity, and the humor that have—they and other qualities—brought Mr. Wells his large audience. It has, too, the kind of authority that belongs to works that proceed from a man's whole nature and total convictions—the product at once of heart and head.

COLONEL GREATHEART

A NOVEL of romance, of love and adventure, written in the best modern style. In time it dates back to Cromwell and Charles I., to Roundhead and Cavalier, but in method and quality of thought it belongs to the day of Stevenson and Hewlett Its four hundred clean and clever pages are a delight, a wonder of craftsmanship. It recalls great and beloved titles in historic fiction—"Lorna Doone" and "Henry Esmond," "David Balfour" and "Richard Yea and Nay"—and beside them seems an achievement not unworthy of its place.

WE HEARTILY RECOMMEND

COLONEL GREATHEART

By H. C. Bailey. Illustrated in photogravure by Lester Ralph. 12mo. Cloth. $1.50. The Bobbs-Merrill Company, Indianapolis.

NOTE

That RELIGION AND MEDICINE

is selling now faster than ever and that it is a book you will have to stock up on every week or two unless you order in generous lots. Think this over and save trouble and money.

That THE BIG FELLOW

is beginning to show a good deal of life, and you'd better keep up on it. Third big edition nearly exhausted. It's getting its gait.

That SCIENCE and IMMORTALITY

is one of the extremely important net books of this year, and should be put up in front and featured. Sir Oliver Lodge is a card just now.

That THE VIRGIN IN JUDGMENT

soon ready here, has sold six editions in England in two months—something unprecedented for Phillpotts. All the British papers say it's much the best novel he ever wrote.

The Shepherd of the Hills

A Novel by HAROLD BELL WRIGHT, author of

"THAT PRINTER OF UDELL'S"

NOTE: Since the publication of Mr. Wright's first book, "That Printer of Udell's" in 1903, sales have increased every year over those of the year preceding. A like record, on a very much larger scale, is now being made by Mr. Wright's greater success, "The Shepherd of the Hills."

"One of the best novels written in the English language for over a decade. . . . Good luck to the man who can put upon paper so fine a novel of American life."
—Pittsburg Press.

"There are many bits of excellent description in the course of the story, and an atmosphere as fresh and sweet and free from modern grime as one would breathe on the Ozark trails themselves."—New York Times.

Keep Up Your Stock. Meet the Increasing Demand

Every time you sell a true-heart story that stirs the warm blood and gets a grip on life you make a new customer, or you make a better one. Every reader of "The Shepherd of the Hills" will add praise to that already so extravagantly accorded this splendid story of American life.

IMPORTANT CASSELL JUVENILES

ALICE IN WONDERLAND

By LEWIS CARROLL. Specially Illustrated by CHARLES ROBINSON. A Beautiful Gift-book. The volume contains 8 Coloured Plates and 112 Illustrations in Black-and-White. Popular Edition. Cloth, $1.50.

"The illustrations are all dainty, delicate and quaint, and will appeal specially to children, for the real Wonderland atmosphere is well preserved."—Westminster Gazette.

BLUE AND GREY

By HARRY COLLINGWOOD, Author of "The Castaways." With 4 Coloured Plates by E. STUART HARDY. $1.25.

The author has chosen for the period of his novel the stirring time of the American Civil War. The cruise of the "Alabama" is graphically described. Jack Howard, the hero, starts his fighting in the Confederate Army. He is kidnapped, and placed by a mistake of his captors on board a Confederate ship, eventually visits England in connection with the sailing of the "Alabama," and remains on board of her until she is sunk by the "Kearsage." After a brief imprisonment, he finally accepts a commission in the United States Navy.

GRIMM'S HOUSEHOLD STORIES

Edited and Illustrated J. R. MONSELL. With 12 Coloured Plates and over 100 Illustrations. $1.25.

The classic and delightful stories by Grimm, which have given pleasure to millions of children, have been illustrated in a charmingly original manner by J. R. Monsell. The artist has entered into the spirit of the stories with wonderful success, and the volume is certain to win favour among young and old alike.

THE TRANSFORMATIONS OF THE TRUEFITTS

By S. H. HAMER, Author of "The Young Gullivers." With 4 Plates. Paper Boards, 60 cents; Cloth, 75 cents.

Another of Mr. Hamer's absorbing stories for boys and girls. The charming illustrations are by Mr. Harry Rountree, and include four splendid coloured plates. In the fascinating manner with which so many children, to their intense pleasure and amusement, are already familiar, the author tells how Tony and Tiny Truefitt, "aged 12 and 10 respectively, and just ordinary, sensible, everyday sort of children," are transformed into different kinds of animals and birds, and so learn many interesting things about these wonderful creatures.

CURIOSITY LAND FOR YOUNG PEOPLE

With Coloured Frontispiece and Illustrations in the Text. Paper Boards, 75 cents; Cloth Gilt, $1.00.

This volume is a collection of exceedingly interesting pictures of curious animals, buildings, people, etc., with informative matter relating to them. It will give great pleasure to children, and at the same time add to their general knowledge.

The manufacture of these volumes is thoroughly representative of the craftsmanship which has made the house of Cassell famous. The bookseller can show them with pride and the knowledge that they will please the most fastidious customer

COCHRANE PUBLISHING COMPANY

Tribune Building, New York City

MR. OLIVER BAINBRIDGE recounts, with penetrating brevity, in the CRIMES and VICES of several rulers, including the Czar of Russia, the Sultan of Turkey and a number of men and women prominent in public life in Europe and the United States, believing that it is a positive benefit to Society to discuss them critically. Not since the Pall Mall Gazette disclosures of Wm. Stead has there been such an heroic uncovering of vice in high places.

Dog women, depraved society parasites, gilded dens of vice, lynching and burnings, and a few of the colossal grafters in the United States, all come in for their share. This fearless attack is given material emphasis by the powerful illustrations of Mr. VET ANDERSON, of the New York World.

The vice uncovered in this book is simply awful in its exposition of the supremacy of the fiend incarnate in human affairs. Christendom will stand aghast at the frightful record of murders, tortures and debauchery here told for the first time.

I. "THE MAD SCIENTIST." $1.50
A remarkable evolution in the way of a mystery story, in which the unsuspected powers of nature are discovered and utilized in erratic, yet appalling fashion.—Chicago Daily News.

II. "HAWAIIAN IDYLLS." By H. H. GOWEN, F.R.G.S. $1.00
It is not too much to say that the gifted author, in this last series of prose tales, is surpassed by no writer on similar themes, and equaled by few. . . . There are eleven idylls in all, and their poetic titles afford but a faint suspicion of the charm of the narratives so exquisitely told.—News, Tacoma, Wash.

III. "GUY HUNTER." $1.50
Many phases of contemporary life in the South, particularly in Georgia, are depicted in fascinating style in "Guy Hunter," a novel by Judge William Weldon Stark.—Boston Globe.

IV. "VIRGINIA RUSSELL." By IRENE DICKSON SCHULDER $1.50
In literary style the book has clear merit. The writing is simple and direct—good plain English, with no mannerisms and no attempt at fine writing.—Salt Lake Republican.

Mary Johnston's Great Novel

LEWIS RAND

THE BOSTON TRANSCRIPT says

"In 'Lewis Rand' we have historical fiction at its very best, and Miss Johnston also at the highest point of her inventive, her pictorial and her constructive skill. Many as are the historical novels that have persistently confronted us in the years of the recent past, we do not recall one that possesses the dramatic power, the picturesque quality, and the vivid realism of 'Lewis Rand.'"

"One of the strongest works of fiction that has seen the light of day in America."—N. Y. Times.

THE NATION says

"Of all her novels, 'Lewis Rand' has the best right to be regarded as a literary event. . . . The story is notable for a deepening of thought and maturity of analysis that are almost startling in comparison with its predecessors. . . . Above all the sub-motives rises the vital theme—the triumph of character over temperament. The keynote of the book is sounded in one sentence: 'It is strange what pain we grow to call Victory.'"

"Of absorbing interest from cover to cover."—Boston Herald.

"The evidences of painstaking and thorough research and of sane and unbiassed judgment are clear on every page. The author has not only studied the standard authorities, both in manuscript and type, with unwearied diligence; he has also tapped three sources hitherto unknown—the private papers of Sir Benjamin D'Urban, quartermaster-general of the Portugese army under Marshal Beresford; the correspondence of Nicholas Trant and John Wilson, two enterprising leaders in the Portuguese campaign, to whom was entrusted the important task of cutting off Messena's communications with Spain and France; and the letters of Gen. George John Gaspar Le Marchant, who fell at Salamanca. Furthermore, he has twice visited in person the scenes he describes, and is therefore able to furnish many topographical details of the highest value."

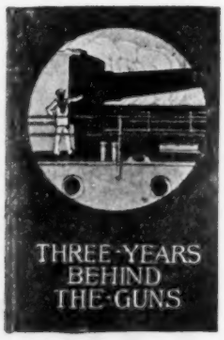
THREE YEARS BEHIND THE GUNS



A remarkable book which the critics are calling

"A New 'Two Years Before the Mast'"

It is a true chronicle of a sailor boy on the Olympia, who fought in the Battle of Manila Bay. Day by day he set down his happenings and feelings, and no such intimate record of life aboard an American man-of-war has ever been penned.

What People Say of It:

A Famous Writer

DR. S. WEIR MITCHELL

"I do not know when I have read a more agreeable volume or one more interesting in its details of sea life. . . . The book interested me so much that I sat up with it late into the night and found myself regretting that it was not longer. . . . I should like very much to know who wrote the book; but whoever wrote it, will you have the kindness to send him this letter with my thanks for two very agreeable evenings."

The Admiral of the Navy

GEORGE DEWEY

"Many of my friends and I have read it with the greatest interest. I can vouch for many of the facts; and the description of the battle of Manila Bay is one of the best I have ever seen published. The type and active life of our American seamen of to-day is well and interestingly portrayed, and the book is worth the attention of both young and old."

The Episcopal Bishop of San Francisco, William F. Nichols

"It tells the story so well and gives one such an intelligent idea of the sailor's point of view and experience, and I found my interest in it so sustained that I could not put it down until I had read it through. . . . Our government could not find a more helpful agency in adding to the number of young men that are a credit to the Navy than to widely distribute this book around the areas of the recruiting offices."

Published anonymously. Though it ran as a serial in St. Nicholas Magazine, the book seems to be appealing as much to grown-up people as to young folks; in fact it hits all ages.

Illustrated by Jorgensen and from photographs. 12mo, $1.50

Anne Douglas Sedgwick's New Novel

AMABEL CHANNICE

Here is a plot so unusual and daring as to be startling, but the book ends in a climax of exquisite beauty, marvelously conceived and handled. The growing audience of Anne Douglas Sedgwick will highly appreciate this latest book from the pen of the author of "A Fountain Sealed," "The Rescue," etc. $1.50.

NOTES IN SEASON.

BRENTANO'S publish to-day a historical novel entitled "The God of Clay," by H. C. Bailey, the hero of which is Napoleon Bonaparte.

THE CENTURY COMPANY will bring out late this month "The Reminiscences of Lady Randolph Churchill," the text of which has been largely rewritten by the author for the book. Dr. S. Weir Mitchell's story of life in Philadelphia after the Revolutionary War, entitled "The Red City," will be ready at the same time.

C. S. HAMMOND & Co., 152 Broadway, New York City, have just ready 1909 editions of "Hammond's Modern Atlas of the World;" "Ready Reference Atlas of the World;" "Descriptive Atlas of Panama and the Isthmian Canal;" "Hammond's Atlas of the World;" also, "Hammond's New Globes," all fully described in their advertising pages in this issue.

CHARLES SCRIBNER' SONS have brought out this week Edith Wharton's "A Motor Flight Through France," describing a trip through many parts of France—not to the larger cities but to the smaller and out-of-the-way towns not often visited and little known, and, above all, through the country itself, with forty-eight full-page illustrations; "The Wind in the Willows," by Kenneth Grahame, who in this quaint, amusing and fascinating story has produced a book that will be of intense interest to everybody; also, "Tommy Trot's Visit to Santa Claus," by Thomas Nelson Page, dealing with the highly interesting adventures of two small boys in Santa Claus land, with illustrations in color and in black and white.

BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY will publish immediately "The Orphant Annie Book," by James Whitcomb Riley. In size, shape and general appearance it is a companion volume to "The Raggedy Man," published a year ago. The illustrations and decorations are by Ethel Franklin Betts, whose name is coming to be indissolubly associated with Mr. Riley's books of child-verse. The large square plates retain the full charm and effectiveness of the original paintings in oil. "The Orphant Annie Book" is printed throughout in colors. For text, the poems about the famous little girl who told of the goblins that "git you ef you don't watch out" serve as a delightfully feminine counterpart to those about the boys' own hero, "The Raggedy Man."

HOUGHTON MIFFLIN COMPANY publish this week Mary Johnston's romance of the days of Thomas Jefferson, entitled "Lewis Rand," which is full of dramatic situations, illustrated in color by F. C. Yohn; "John Keats," by Professor Albert E. Hancock, of Haverford College, a compact, readable and authoritative life written with vivacity, enthusiasm and charm; "Park Street Papers," by Bliss Perry, editor of The Atlantic Monthly, a collection of essays having to do with The Atlantic Monthly and its home on Park Street; "Fresh Posies," by Abbie Farwell Brown, a collection of juvenile verse which grownups may read with pleasure, illustrated in color by Anna M. Upjohn; "The Chaucer Story Book," a dozen of the stories in Chaucer's always popular "Canterbury Tales" told for young readers in the prose of to-day, by Eva March Tappan; also, "The Tortoise and the Geese," and other fables of Pilpay, (Bidpai) retold by Maude B. Dutton, with illustrations by E. Boyd Smith.

An intimate personal account of a journey over the Caucasus and into and through Persia in an automobile. The party, which consisted of two ladies and five men, including the author, traversed Bessarabia, a country which will still for many years be unknown to motorists, and by this means also visited the Caucasus and the Crimea, where snow and rain more than anything else obstructed them. Then, after a few excursions around Batun and Koutais, the automobile was shipped to Baku in Persia. There also one of the party vainly tried to motor over the impassable mountains that in the region of Tabriz guard the great plateau of Iran. The rest of the party reached by automobile the second sacred town of Persia— Kum.

A sympathetic biography of the author of "Le Crime de Sylvestre Bonnard." He was born in 1844 in Paris. A complete edition of his books is now in course of publication. The keynote of his work is enthusiasm for the great spiritual revolt of the 18th century. He is still doing good literary work.

Brenan, Gerald, and Statham, E: Phillips. The house of Howard; with 32 full-page il. and 2 photogravure plates. In 2 v. N. Y., Appleton, 1908. 11+334; 8+335-688 p. O. cl., *$6 special net.
The great race of Howard, which includes the Earls of Effingham, Northampton, Suffolk, Norfolk and Carlisle, has stood at the head of England's nobility for centuries and has been so closely associated with the political development of the nation that this work is the first complete history of what may be termed, very justly, the principal native house of England. Begins with the story of the early Howards who about the year 1250 lived in the western part of Norfolk. There are chapters on the famous "Iacke of Norfolk," Duke Jone, the victor of Flodden; the Pilgrimage of Grace in 1536; Catherine Howard, who became the wife of Henry VIII.; the poet Earl of Surrey and his times; the venerable Philip Howard, first Earl of Arundel; the family under the Stuarts, etc., etc.

The author is Bishop of the Philippine Islands. Contents: Introductory; The metaphysics of leadership; The power of the single motive; The power of the human will; The power of the blameless life; The power of fellowship with the divine; The representative leader of men. Notes.

Briggs, Ernest E: Angling and art in Scotland: some fishing experiences related and illustrated; with 32 coloured plates. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1908. 12+216 p. il. O. cl., *$4 net.
Although this book is entitled "Angling and art in Scotland" it must not be thought that it is in any way a treatise upon painting. A parallel is drawn between the art of the angler and that of the landscape painter, which is, to the author's mind, "very real and ever present;" he has, however, devoted his space to the narration of certain angling experiences and descriptions of scenery, which he hopes may be of interest not only to the angler but to the general reader.

Bronzino, Angiolo. The masterpieces of Bronzino; 60 reproductions of photographs from the original paintings, affording examples of the different characteristics of the artist's work. N. Y., Frederick A. Stokes Co., [1908.] 65 p. il. T. (Painters' ser.) leath., *75 c. net; pap., *25 c. net.

Burpee, Lawrence J. The search for the western sea: the story of the exploration of north-western America. N. Y., Appleton, 1908. 60+651 p. pls. maps, O. cl., *$5 special net.
Deals with some of the most exciting and most romantic episodes in the history of the exploration of North America. The book goes back to the time of the Norsemen and brings the history of the northwest down to the present day. The author is librarian of the Public Library at Ottawa, and has had exceptional opportunities of obtaining access to original documents, the information contained in which has never before been published.

Burrell, D: Ja., D.D. The lure of the city: a book for young men. N. Y., Funk & Wagnalls Co., 1908. c. 284 p. D. cl., $1 net.
For the youth whose lot is already cast in the city and to him who hears its call the author, pastor of the Marble Collegiate Church, addresses the book. The conflicting problems a young man must grapple with, often unaided, his future dependence on how he solves them, the author realizes and dwells on—Going into business, Friends, Books, Amusements, The pace that kills, The code of honor, The Christian, The honest man—trying to define in each the idealism lost in the hurry of events, yet dealing with them in the broad understanding of a man of the world as well as a clergyman.

Bury, Lady Charlotte. The diary of a lady-in-waiting: being the diary illustrative of the times of George the Fourth, interspersed with original letters from the late Queen Caroline and from other distinguished persons; ed. with an introd. by A. Francis Steuart; with 18 full-page portraits, 2 in photogravure. N. Y., John Lane Co., (The Bodley Head,) 1908. 2 v., 15+416; 485 p. O. cl., *$7.50 net.

This book, which appeared anonymously in 1838, created great interest, and was fiercely criticised by Thackeray and in the Reviews of the time. There is no doubt that it was founded on the diary of Lady Charlotte Bury,, daughter of the 15th Duke of Argyll, and Lady-in-Waiting to the unfortunate Caroline of Brunswick, when Princess of Wales. It deals, therefore, with the curious Court of the latter and with the scandals that occurred there, as well as with the strange vagaries of the Princess abroad. In this edition names left blank in the original have been (where possible) filled in and many notes are given by the editor to render it useful to the ever-increasing number of readers interested in the later Georgian Period.

Appeals not only to the archæologist, but to the person who is interested in history only for its romantic side. The accounts of these ancient queens, who reigned in the Nile country centuries before Cleopatra, have been gathered from hieroglyphic records dug up out of old ruins. They extend from before 4000 B.C. to 525 B.C., when the last of the native princesses died just previous to the conquest of the country by Cambyses. The author is a niece of Theodore Davis, the well-known Egyptologist.

A story, almost wholly, of fishing and camp life. Archie, the young hero, is the son of wealthy parents, and is spoiled and fretful. When lounging before the house one day a young man appears, tells Archie he is to take him on a trip, gains the boy's confidence, and picking up another boy they all start off into the country. Night comes on and the adventures of the kidnapped boys begin. The author is the wife of the librarian of Columbia University.

The author of "Lord Jim" and other stories of the sea breaks new ground in "The point of honor." The heroes are two officers of Napoleon's army who, amid the great conflict that involved the whole of Europe for fifteen years, carried on their own private warfare with a species almost of insanity, bred of the wild mood of the period. The precise reason of their mutual hatred was unknown to their brother officers. Although they fought side by side in battle and saved each other's lives they never ceased to be enemies. The final challenge on the eve of one of the officers' wedding turns into comedy, the tale ending happily.

For the most part the sermons are studies in the Gospels, with application to the present day needs and problems.

The narrative in this little volume might be called a collection of short sketches illustrating the great events of the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries, with Winkelreid as their dominant figure and connecting link. The author tells of the legends which cluster around Pilatus and good Father Vincentius's thrilling story of the battle of Morgarten. He shows how a mystery play was performed. The ravages of the "black death" are vividly set forth, etc., closing the graphic story with an account of the famous Sempach battle and Winkelreid's courageous death.

The aim of the "Old world series," of which this is the first issue, is to describe both by pen and brush those parts of the old world which travellers find most worthy of their attention and to do for countries and districts what the publishers' well-known "Mediæval town series" has done for cities. It has been the writer's endeavor to describe every place along the whole coast from Marseilles to Pisa, omitting only a few towns close to Genoa which have suffered through the growth of factories and uninteresting houses. Each volume will contain twenty-five illustrations in color and many in black and white reproduced from drawings made on the spot.

Hopper, Ja., and Bechdolt, F: R. "9009." N. Y., McClure Co., 1908. c. 8+195 p. D. cl., †$1.25.

The treatment and conduct of a convict in an American prison described and commented upon in detail. The book takes the form of a novel, with one particular convict as the type of his kind. Gives a startling picture of the injustice and cruelty with which prisoners are treated.

The result of the ill-fated expedition of Leonidas Hubbard's is well known. Misled by imformation he and his friends and one Indian guide suffered untold hardships; finally his two companions were forced to leave Hubbard in the wilderness, only, on returning with aid, to find him dead. In this volume his wife describes her successful effort to map the two unknown rivers of Labrador that her husband lost his life in attempting, gives her husband's diary, and the account of George Elson after he left Hubbard. There is the first map of the region here, and indeed this journey through Labrador is the only one acknowledged by European and American geological societies.

Lewisohn, Ludwig. The broken snare. N. Y., B. W. Dodge & Co., 1908. c. 289 p. D. cl., $1.50.

A psychological study of the marriage relation by a new writer. The novel has its chief setting in a cheap flat on Morningside Heights. Dr. Garnett, his wife and daughter Frances live here a struggling existence on $1200 a year. Frances is a pretty, well-educated girl, whose dull life is slowly breaking her heart. Her father introduces into his home Julian Ware, a cultured man, who does not believe in the tyranny of marriage. The young people love each other and Ware several times tries to break away from the fascination of Frances. Finally he tells her plainly his theories of love and marriage and she rather than give him up leaves her home and goes with him South, where she is introduced as "Mrs. Ware." In the end after painful experiences they realize their mistake and marry.

Lillibridge, W: Otis. The quest eternal; frontispiece in color by the Kinneys. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1908. c. 16+326 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

The hatred of Dr. Macleod for his one time partner Stone, who has allowed him to be innocently imprisoned, forms the background of fate that the hero must struggle against in his quest for love and fortune. Returning from the penitentiary Macleod finds Stone successful. Broken he leaves to begin life on a western farm, vowing if Stone attempts to marry he will seek his life. On the farm his son Robert is born with a club foot. Poor and indifferent he does not attempt an operation, and when they do consent the doctor finds Stone is the only safe man to operate. Years of saving and the day for Robert to go to the city comes. That day the money and his father disappear—next to be heard of as a suicide and murderer of Stone, whose marriage he had heard of. The girl Robert loves goes East to become a famous opera singer and he takes up the struggle as cripple and finally as consumptive, but all his trials bring about a happy ending.

Lincoln, Jos. Crosby. Cy Whittaker's place; with il. by Wallace Morgan. N. Y., Appleton, 1908. c. 9+403 p. pls. D. cl., †$1.50.

By the author of "Cap'n Eri" and "Mr. Pratt," etc. The same quaint humor that characterized the author's former books will be found in this. Cy Whittaker, who, as a boy, had run away to sea, returns to his native Cape Cod village to find his old homestead sadly changed by "improvements." Force of circumstances lead the old bachelor to adopt a little girl and to undertake her education, assisted by two old cronies. The amusing difficulties with the child's education make an entertaining foil to the efforts of the little girl's worthless father to regain possession of her.

An idealistic young artist named Keith, who has come to New York to paint a portrait, falls in love with Betty Lynch, the daughter of a well-known multi-millionaire, but refuses to marry her except on condition that she takes no portion of her father's "tainted millions." Betty, though at first indignant at Keith's attitude, finally agrees to marry him and to live with him in England on his income. For a time all goes well, till money is needed for their sick child, when a definite rupture takes place between them, Betty going back to New York. She is not happy, however, thinks out an ingenious plan for winning back her husband and returns to England.

A story of modern American life, the scene of which is for the most part laid in New York, though some of the action passes at Paris and the concluding scenes in Morocco, at Tangier and in the mountains of the sea coast. Barry Gordon is the son of a Confederate officer; he and his brother Tom both adore the same girl; after she rejects him for his brother he sets forth on a career of reckless dissipation and adventure, which takes him over the entire face of the earth. Tom, on an engineering mission in Morocco, is kidnapped by brigands. Barry accepts the rumors of his brother's death, after a somewhat perfunctory search, comes back and renews his suit successfully with Tom's fiancée. On the very night of their wedding word reaches him that Tom is still alive. The complications that ensue are romantic and intense.

Robert Dudley is shown as a person of many qualities and attractions and of some worth. Holding that a true principle both in life and in history is that one should think the best until one knows the worst, Mrs. Richardson gives Lord Leicester and the queen he served so long the benefit of all doubts their words and conduct have given rise to in their day and in ours. The aim of the writer has been not to discover fresh facts, but to discern the true character and to determine the real designs of the queen's favorite.

The author of "A fountain sealed" again writes an English story, embracing a remarkable character study. Its heroine is a young innocent girl, married to a man of the world greatly her senior. He neglects her cruelly, and she cannot love him. For a brief time she yields to her mad infatuation for a young artist, going away with him to Paris, but leaving him in a little while, knowing he is the father of her coming child. She confesses all to her husband, who generously shields her name, although they separate, she going to live on one of his lonely estates, he still leading his dissolute life. The story is chiefly of her life with and love for her son, with other startling events that occur when the boy learns his true story.

With a fund of information and pleasant style of recounting, the author tells the story of the once romantic source of New England's wealth. From the time of the early coast whaling to the days when Yankee fleets scoured the frozen seas to the north, and far to the south towards Africa, one breathes the salt of the sea and hears the tales of the gallant barques from the mouths of their brave captains. Gone are the days of adventure, the cruel crimp system and almost the fleets—there are only forty ships now, eighteen sailing from San Francisco.

This book is made up of the letters of a famous English bishop, written during one of the most interesting decades of history, that of the Battle of Waterloo. The first of the letters records a tour of France, Northern Italy and Spain, made by Bishop Stanley in 1802-3. There are some piquant pictures of French life and many intimate observations of the people, their customs, dress, habits, etc., and their fear of Napoleon. In 1814, just before the Battle of Waterloo, Bishop Stanley again visited France and it is in his letters written at that time that the interest of the book centres.

The plot is woven within the walls of Versailles, where the Marquise de Pompadour spins a network of intrigue which finally enmeshes the hero, a young courtier of care free life, who becomes infatuated with this amazing Royal favorite of low birth, who, though not the true heroine, passes dominately through the story. His rash avoidance of Louis' order of exile and the ensuing wrath of the King bring countless misfortune, till his love for the true heroine, a brave-hearted convent girl, and his final hatred for the black splendor of this Palace of Danger draws the tale to a happy ending.

In story form young readers may obtain from "War children" a good outline of the Civil War in the North, from the first shot fired at Fort Sumter to the assassination of Lincoln. The characters are two boys, whose father enlists on the first call for troops, is wounded in battle, taken as a prisoner to Libby Prison, from whence he escapes, aided by a patriotic colored man, and gets back home again. The children's interest in the war is uppermost. They play war, build forts, take parts with the different generals, etc. They are quaint and amusing, the story being set far from battlefields.

White, Albert Beebe. The making of the English constitution, 449-1485. N. Y., Putnam, 1908. c. 27+410 p. O. cl., $2 net.
Author is professor of history in the University of Minnesota. This work is intended to supply the brief, up-to-date college text which teachers of English constitutional history have long wanted. It emphasizes evolution rather than description; to furnish a logically satisfying account of the genesis of each institution as far as present knowledge permits is its purpose. It presupposes the accompanying use of a general narrative of English history and a book of documents, the author believing that narrative and institutional history cannot be profitably combined in the same work, and that nothing can take the place of the first-hand study of documents in class. Bibliography (11 p.). Suggestions for collateral reading (2½ p.). Index.

Planned somewhat on the lines of Hezekiah Butterfield's "Zig-zag journeys." This, the first volume of what will probably be a series, is devoted to England, and gives much interesting information about its history, literature, great men, etc. It is written as a story, the characters being four American boys and their tutor, who go abroad to have a good time and gain an education by travel. They rush around in an automobile and have many amusing adventures.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

OCTOBER 10, 1908.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

HOW TO GET A BOOKSTORE TALKED ABOUT.

To get a bookstore talked about is an easy enough matter if one sets about it in the right way. For example, keep the store window dusty and soiled; expose in the way of window display a collection of heterogeneous odds and ends—preferably soiled stationery in broken boxes and gaudy books in faded bindings; keep the store littered up, with everything in the wrong place, and tables arranged so that customers are obliged to squeeze their way around, or stumble over, them to get into and out of the store; surround yourself with untidy and ignorant or indifferent help, and treat your customers as intruders. That would answer the purpose, and get your store talked about in such a way as to close it up in a short time, unless you should happen to keep things that could not be obtained elsewhere, and that certain people must have even though they must struggle for them with curmudgeons in undesirable surroundings.

The above is not, as many will be inclined to think, altogether drawn from the imagination. We recall a number of second-hand bookshops and not a few so-called miscellaneous book and stationery stores that answer the description. Some of the proprietors allow their stores to run down in this fashion because they do not know better, and feel offended when their attention is drawn to their shortcomings, because, as they protest, they are doing all in their power to keep their stores in apple-pie order. Their windows were not quite spick and span because they hadn't had time to look after them for some weeks; and when they did make a hasty attempt to clean them they looked even worse than before. The fact is, they considered the time required for this important duty as time lost, and, furthermore, they didn't know how to do it. To hire a professional window-cleaner and window-dresser costs money, and to spend money on such details! Perish the thought!

The stock and the store might not look "slicked up," but disorderly, never! The proprietor could put his hands on everything he had, even on that which was in the unopened boxes, and under the stacks on the floor, and on that which was hidden out of sight.

As for the clerks! good Lord, what could you expect of clerks in these degenerate days. Clerks are a necessary evil, and that's the end of the matter. To get higher-priced help would not change conditions; it would simply mean so much more out of pocket, and, as you know, there is little enough profit in the book business any way.

His own manners! "Well," as one of these said to the writer, "Do you mean that I'm not a gentleman?" And, as Mr. Dooley says, "there ye are."

And as for the customers! "Oh, they get what is coming to them."

Having the wrong way before us, it is easy enough to select the more desirable way of getting your store talked about; almost as easy as becoming well-bred by avoiding the breaches of good conduct committed by boors.

LONDON TIMES SURRENDERS (?).

THE New York World on September 29 printed the following special cable despatch:

LONDON, Sept. 29 (Tuesday 5 A.M.)—The struggle which has been going on for two years between the London Times Book Club and the whole body of publishers has come to an end.

"The Times has virtually capitulated and has joined the Publishers' Association.

"Members of the association are now notified that they may deal with the Times Book Club."

A cable despatch to the New York Herald, dated October 3, says: "War between the publishers and the Times Book Club has come to an end, and in this long struggle the publishers have come out victorious. In this struggle the Times had the whole publishing world against it. John Murray was the leader, inspiring the spirit of the English Publishers' Association, and it was mainly through his firmness that it held out against the policy of the Times Book Club. What are the exact terms of settlement will soon be known, but there is no doubt that the victory substantially rests with the publishers."

HOW BOOKS ARE MARKETED.

HOUGHTON MIFFLIN Co. have brought out a pamphlet, entitled "Books and Publicity," outlining in detail the various steps taken by a publishing house in the launching of new books, which we commend to those critics of the booktrade who jump at the conclusion that the publisher is simply an agent for the author in his relations with the printer and binder. The procedure of this firm, which is probably typical of that pursued by every other important publishing house, as regards books on which they assume risks of publication, is as follows:

INFORMATION TO THE TRADE.

When a book has been accepted we prepare a general description from our readers' reports, outlining its plot (if a novel), its scope, literary qualities, power of interest, and the nature of the audience it should especially attract. Added to this is a brief account of the author and his previous work, and a description of the appearance which the volume will have when completed, together with a word on the illustrations, if any, the style of typography, binding, price, etc. A copy of this description is then given to every one on our staff who has any connection with the manufacture, the advertising, or the selling of the book. Our books are published on certain definite days, which we assign months in advance. The final, revised descriptions of the books to be published on a given day we group together in a special circular called the "Trade Circular," which we mail about two weeks before publication day to the booksellers and jobbers throughout the country, together with an order-blank on which the number of copies wished for may be ordered. We have a corps of travellers whose sole duty it is to visit all the important bookstores and take orders, in addition to the orders secured through the mail by the Trade Circulars. We divide the entire United States into sections, and each section is covered by one of our travellers, who are provided with advance copies of the new books whenever possible. In other cases, they are supplied with what are known as dummies, i.e., skeleton books, containing a title-page, a few pages of text, sample illustrations, and sample covers. These serve to show the booksellers the general appearance of the volume; and together with the descriptions with which the travellers are equipped, provide material for a fairly accurate knowledge of what the volume will be both in form and contents when completed.

CATALOGUES.

To assist our travellers in selling and the bookseller and public in ordering new books and old, we supply them with several pamphlets which contain information in regard to the many volumes on our list. These are as follows:

1st. "The Trade List," consisting of over seventy pages, magazine size, which we send to all bookstores. This presents, alphabetically by authors, every book and every edition of every book published by the house and available for purchase. It gives also the size and price, and in the case of newer books, the dates of issue. Moreover it serves as a list of the publications of the house in the larger "Trade-List Annual," which is issued each year by The Publishers' Weekly.

2d. "The Order List." This is a pamphlet of smaller dimensions, containing classified lists of all the important publications of the house, together with prices. It is printed in a way to enable the dealers to keep an account of their stock and to assist them in making up the orders placed with the salesmen at regular intervals. This pamphlet is also kept strictly up to date, and is published once a year.

3d. "The Portrait Catalogue." We take considerable pride in this handsome volume of 240 pages, attractively printed and bound in paper. In it all the publications of the house are arranged alphabetically by authors, with valuable classified lists, index, and interesting portraits and autographs of many of the authors. This catalogue is sent to all booksellers, and is mailed without charge to any address upon application. . . . This catalogue is republished each fall, thoroughly revised.

INFORMATION FOR THE NEWSPAPERS.

We send out, upon publication, a very large number of free copies of our new books for review in the leading publications of the country. In order that this distribution may be made intelligently, we have a carefully made list of over 800 newspapers and magazines, with which we keep in close touch. New periodicals are constantly added, and old ones which have either gone out of existence or lost their value are taken out. Whenever a new book is published, we select a special list of these papers with the character of the book in mind. For instance, if the volume about to be published has to do with religion, religious papers, family weeklies, and academic reviews are largely represented in the list. If the volume has to do with the natural sciences, an entirely different selection is made. The most influential newspapers of the country, however, and the leading English journals are supplied with copies of practically every publication we issue. In addition to the volumes themselves, we send out literary and biographical notes relating to authors and their work, as well as photographs or electrotypes of portraits and illustrations. We furnish the leading papers with a weekly news budget, in order that full information regarding the work of the house may be kept constantly before the public. A list of six hundred leading papers, called the "Press List," is kept on stencils, so than any important literary announcement can be set up, printed and mailed within twenty-four hours after it has been received. In order that those in charge may keep thoroughly posted concerning the service of the newspapers and periodicals, the house has its own Clipping Bureau, where the papers are examined daily, and everything relating to our books and authors is cut out and filed.

IN THE BOOKSTORES.

In these days when so many volumes are issued each month, the success or failure of a book is often largely a matter of competition, and this new "battle of the books" is in a large measure decided in the bookstores, where the public goes to purchase. In consequence, we make every effort to have our books present a pleasing appearance. The paper jackets which cover them are printed with extreme care and often are illustrated. The boxes which hold the more expensive books are made as attractive as possible. Posters are printed at great expense, and enlarged reproductions of illustrations are distributed liberally for display purposes. This last year we have offered prizes to the bookstores making the most attractive window displays of our publications. Full information is supplied to the clerks in the bookstores, and everything possible is done to make it easy for them to know the nature of our new books, as well as something of their authors.

ENGLISH RELATIONS.

The sale of our books in Great Britain is in the hands of Messrs. Archibald Constable & Company, Ltd., one of the most progressive and active publishing houses in London. We keep them in closest touch with all our new publications, and they are continually on the alert for books for which there is promise of a British market. Sometimes they reprint and issue these in English editions. In other cases they import the books from us and sell them in the same form abroad as they are issued in the United States. They also advertise the books in the same way and through the same channels as they do their own publications. . . .

NEWSPAPER AND PERIODICAL ADVERTISING.

During the last ten years, great stress has been laid by authors and publishers upon the value of newspaper advertising As a consequence, the leading journals of the country have contained from time to time flaring notices of the latest publications. Frankly we do not believe that this method of publicity is to the best interests either of our authors or of ourselves, and we feel that proof of this will be found by any one who chooses to make it a matter of investigation. We have, on the other hand, thorough confidence in the value of newspaper advertising when the announcements properly convey to the readers a true conception of the contents and value of the books, and to show this confidence, we append a list of publications used by us for advertising in 1907. [Here follows the list of 800 newspapers and magazines referred to earlier in the article.]

DIRECT INDIVIDUAL ADVERTISING.

The most important factor in publishing success, in our opinion, is not miscellaneous advertising, but the ability to bring any given book forcibly to the attention of precisely the persons most directly interested in its subject. Of this field of publicity Houghton, Mifflin & Company have made a long special study. In our equipment are to be found over 375 separate lists of upwards of 500,000 individuals known to be interested in various definite subjects. These lists are carefully classified, and show the result of many years of work. They are in charge of persons whose sole duty it is to see that the names and addresses are accurate, and that they are kept constantly up to date. The lists are in such form that they can be taken separately and used for mailing at any moment. Among our lists may be mentioned in this connection a complete list of professors and instructors in the colleges of the country, together with their boards of trustees. This list numbers more than ten thousand names. It is in printed form, so that communications can be sent out at the shortest notice. Besides these lists we have access to thousands of names from printed catalogues, directories, and official registers.

CIRCULARS AND BULLETINS.

Our Advertising Department prepares from time to time circulars of special books, and these circulars are mailed to selected lists of possible buyers, as well as to every bookseller of any importance. All inquiries resulting from the sending out of these circulars or from any other source are carefully tabulated. Thus, any one who writes to the house inquiring about a book on history, for instance, is entered on the list of persons interested in history, and receives all of our announcements relating to books on history, as succeessve publications in this branch of literature are issued. This method has proved an endless chain of great value; and although the expense which this form of publicity entails is not perhaps so much appreciated by outsiders as the large display advertisements in the newspapers, its value to the house and to our authors has been proved in the long run to be much greater.

In addition to these circular mailings, and of perhaps more importance, is the regular distribution of our "Riverside Bulletin," which is published at frequent intervals. These Bulletins first appear in The Atlantic Monthly, where they have the advantage of being read by practically every reader of that magazine. We then print them separately in large quantities and distribute them throughout the trade and to the public, giving the same care and attention to the selection of lists as in the case of our circulars. Among the issues of the Bulletin may be mentioned the "Spring Bulletin," issued in March and giving our announcements of every new book publisher or to be published between January and June; the "Fall Bulletin," covering the publishing season between July and December; and the "Holiday Bulletin," which describes books new and old suitable for gifts at Christmas and New Year's. This special issue is always printed in the decorative fashion which the holiday season demands, is lavishly illustrated, and furnished with an index, which makes it a practical guide to good books at all prices. We distribute over 200,000 copies of this Bulletin each year, and the results have shown that it is an extremely valuable method of interesting the public in our publications. Other issues of our Bulletin give varying information and news. Sometimes they are confined to classified lists of books on certain subjects, such as Biography, History, etc. Frequently, they review our latest publications and contain extracts from the most important press notices, thus showing the opinion of the best critics regarding our books. Occasional issues have dwelt with the history and plans of the Firm, or contained descriptions of the mechanical devices used in the printing and binding of our books.

We do all this to try to interest the public not only in our books but also in our methods, and to cultivate a love of good books and good printing.

LIBRARY DEPARTMENT.

In a somewhat similar way we furnish librarians throughout the country at frequent intervals with circulars, special letters, and Bulletins, which give them detailed and accurate information concerning all the publications of the house as they appear. Further than this we have prepared a special catalogue giving the books selected by the American Library Association at the St. Louis Exposition, and specially recommended to librarians. This catalogue has been sent out broadcast to the librarians of the country, and similar recommendations will be sent out from time to time.

THE LIBRARY OF GENERAL DANIEL O'CONNELL.

THE Anderson Auction Company, of New York this fall will dispose of a collection of books relating to the French Revolution, the Consulate and the Empire, that deserves more than a passing notice. According to the London Times "the nucleus of the collection was formed by General Daniel O'Connell, younger son of Daniel O'Connell, of Darrinane Abbey, County Kerry, being one of twenty-two children. Born in August, 1743, he entered the French service, in 1757, in Lord Clare's regiment of the Irish Brigade, and had a distinguished career. He was present at the capture of Fort Mahon in 1779, and was severely wounded at the attack on Gibraltar in 1782. He emigrated to England at the outbreak of the French Revolution, but returned to France at the Restoration, and was made lieutenant-general under the Bourbons. He died in July, 1833, at his château, near Blois, on the Loire, 'holding the rank of general in the French, and the oldest colonel in the English service. Daniel O'Connell, the celebrated Liberator, was the son of General O'Connell's elder brother, Morgan.

"After General O'Connell's death his library passed into the hands of Captain O'Mahony, of the French army, in whose family it has remained ever since, many important additions having been made to it from time to time. It has apparently of late years been housed in Dublin, whence it has been sent to New York for public sale. . . . Only when the catalogue is published will the full importance of the collection be realized. It is small in number, as libraries go nowadays, but it contains many pieces of very great rarity. Of the Revolutionary period there are three of Mirabeau's works, at the head of which is the 'Lettres de Cachet et des Prisons d'Etat,' with the Hambourg imprint and the date 1782, issued anonymously. Mirabeau's authorship of this has been disputed, although Barbier has proved conclusively that it is his work, and as such it is now found under his name in the various bibliographies. An English translation, 'Enquiries Concerning Lettres de Cachet,' appeared in 1787. Another work associated with Mirabeau's name is the first edition of 'Considerations sur l'Ordre de Cincinnatus,' published in London in 1785, under the auspices of Benjamin Franklin, and quoting in full Washington's address to the Society of Cincinnati in 1784. Of this first edition no copy is recorded as having been sold at auction in England for the last twenty years; a translation by Samuel Romilly was published at Philadelphia in 1786. The third Mirabeau rarity in the O'Connell library is the famous 'Galerie,' in which he was associated with Choderlos de Laclos Luchet and others, printed in London, 1789-90. This copy derives an additional interest and value from the fact that it has some manuscript additions made to the names of doubtful authenticity.

"Another scarce book is the first edition of 'The Confidential Correspondence of Louis XVI.,' Paris, 1803, issued by Helen Maria Williams, who was imprisoned as a Girondist and narrowly escaped execution. This clever forgery is the work of two Frenchmen —Babie de Bercenay and the Comte de la Platiere. Miss Williams, who was herself completely deceived in the matter, is said to have purchased the original documents from Barbere. There are also the 'Memoires' of Mme. Campestre, whose salon was famous, and who was eventually condemned to prison as an adventuress. Still more famous is that more or less fictitious book, the 'Memoires,' 1828, of Elizabeth van Aylde Jonghe, better known as Ida Saint Elme or Saint Edme, the notorious agent of the secret police of Napoleon. This work, which was issued anonymously in eight volumes, contains very little original work by the reputed author, and is mainly made up of material stolen from Nodier, Villemarest and others. It created a good deal of sensation and mystification on its first appearance, and is interesting chiefly on account of its various anecdotes in connection with Byron, Shelley, Leigh Hunt and others. There is yet another book written by a woman, the wife of Sieur Robert, of which an English translation appeared in London in 1792, under the title of 'The Crimes of the Queens of France.' Another bibliographical rarity may be mentioned—Grippet's 'Memoires de Louis Dauphin de France,' issued in Paris in 1777. It is the first edition, which was issued anonymously, and contained many passages which were immediately suppressed.

"The Napoleonic literature contains many rarities, one of the most interesting being the 'Proces-Verbal de 1789,' by Duveyrier and Bailly, with the former's autograph on the reverse of the title. The copy of Gallais's 'Histoire de la Revolution,' 1815, was at one time in Louis Philippe's library, and has his crowned monogram on the binding. Mention may also be made of Louis XVIIIth's 'Relation d'un Voyage a Bruxelles et a Coblentz, 1791,' in which he describes his flight, when Comte de Provence. It was written in 1823 for private circulation among his own family. These are a few of the more interesting books which will render the General O'Connell sale one of the most interesting of the coming season in New York."

THE GOVERNMENT'S BEST SELLER.

THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE is about to bring out a first edition of 360,000 copies of its Year Book—the volume that is said to have more general readers than any other Government publication. The full issue, as authorized by Congress, is 500,000, and the remaining copies will be printed in subsequent issues if the demand warrants it.

The physical labor involved in getting out the Government's best seller is enormous. The full edition required 3100 reams of plate paper and 21,810 of print paper, while the thread used in the bindery reaches the enormous length of 9,600,000 yards. The covers take up 62,000 yards of book cloth, while 8000 pounds of glue and 30 barrels of flour go to pasting the covers on.

BEST-SELLING FICTION IN AUGUST.

ACCORDING to The Bookman the six most popular novels, in order of demand, as sold in the United States between August 1 and September 1 are the following:

ITALY LOSES A MANUSCRIPT.

A VALUABLE parchment has been stolen from a monastery in Perugia, Italy. The manuscript bore the date of "Lodi, 1163," with the signature of Frederick Barbarossa, and was a document written in Latin, in Saxon characters, confirming the privileges and the possessions enjoyed by the Benedictine Abbey of San Pietro in Perugia. The document was in an excellent state of preservation, and is of great historic value. It was last positively seen two years ago, when all the treasures of the abbey were verified. Since then nothing has been known of it.

NEW YORK ALDERMEN WANT NO BOOKBINDING BY ALIENS.

ON September 29 the New York Board of Aldermen put through a resolution which puts the Board on record against letting contracts for bookbinding to aliens. The resolution requires that there go forth "an instruction from this Board that no further moneys be paid from the libraries' appropriation for bookbinding, except such work as has been performed in accordance with the statute above quoted."

This action is principally directed against Cedric Chivers, the well-known bookbinder of Bath, Eng., who also has a bindery in Brooklyn, N. Y. It is alleged that Chivers does most of his work abroad, and that on large contracts he has found it profitable to ship books to England for rebinding and then to ship them back.

MORGAN'S GIFT TO THE LIBRARY OF CONGRESS.

J. PIERPONT MORGAN has presented to the Library of Congress three volumes of the catalogue of his collection of miniatures compiled by Dr. C. G. Williams. The catalogue was privately printed for Mr. Morgan at the Chiswick Press, London, from copies made under the expert's direction at Hempstead. Only twenty copies of the edition were printed.

The volumes are bound in white vellum with hammered oxidized silver shields in the centre of each. The corners and clasps are also silver designs. On the shields and corners are tiny initials and monograms of some of the artists represented in the work.

Two more volumes are to be added, and it is expected two years will be required to complete the work.

OBITUARY NOTES.

WILHELM J. D. KEUFFEL, president of Keuffel & Esser, of New York City, manufacturers of surveyors' instruments, tools for draughtsmen and artists, etc., died on October 1, at his home in Hoboken, N. J. Mr. Keuffel was born at Walbeck, Germany, July 10, 1838, and came to this country in 1866. His firm was organized in 1867, the junior partner being Hermann Esser, who died last April.

LOUIS DEJONGE, founder of the firm of Louis Dejonge & Co., dealers in papers, dyes, etc., of Tompkinsville, Staten Island and New York City, died September 27 in Frankfurt-on-the-Main, where he was born in 1821. Mr. Dejonge came to this country in 1842 and was actively engaged in business until 1892, when he returned to Germany, leaving his business to his sons.

COMMANDER JOHN BAPTISTE BERNADOU died in New York City, October 2. Commander Bernadou was born in Philadelphia, November 14, 1858. He was the author of "A Trip Through Northern Corea in 1883-4," "Pyro-Collodion Smokeless Powder," "Smokeless Powder, Nitro-Cellulose, and the Theory of the Cellulose Molecule," and translated from the Russian "Questions in Naval Tactics," by Vice-Admiral Makaroff.

ESTHER CHAMBERLAIN died at Mt. Clemens, Mich., September 20. She was the author of two popular novels—"Mrs. Essington" and "The Coast of Chance," written in collaboration with her sister Lucia, and of a number of short stories and poems. Miss Chamberlin was born in San Francisco, and the romance of the old city, its possibilities for the unexpected, particularly its reckless, indomitable youth, made a deep impression upon her. This impression she has reproduced in "The Coast of Chance," as well as in a new novel, completed shortly before her death, which is promised for publication next year. Her life was one of singular devotion to literary work and literary ideals.

COMMUNICATIONS.

AS TO PATENTING BOOKS.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: Ever since reading your very profound article in a recent issue of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, in relation to trade alliance, I have been debating with myself just how a better organization could be put in operation among the retail booksellers of this country.

We cannot expect to bring about a complete reformation of all the abuses now practiced in the trade; but let us bind ourselves closer in organization. We must first have strength, and then the result will be easy to accomplish.

If every bookseller in this country were a member of a State Association, and all in turn were members of the American Booksellers' Association, we could ask for almost any revision in trade practices and get it.

Converse with any publisher, and he will tell you that in his opinion it is for the best interests of the trade to have the retail price of current fiction protected; but he will also add "on account of recent adverse decisions of the courts, etc., etc., [ad lib] such a privilege does not come within the prerogative of the publisher."

If the decisions lately rendered in the case of Macy vs. the American Publishers' Association be any criterion, we have no hope for any redress from this source, but luckily there is another method to rid ourselves of "the yoke that galls," i.e., the department store huckster.

When I read my paper at the last meeting of the American Booksellers' Association, wherein I broached the subject of patenting recent fiction, and, by printing the retail price therein, I did not think it wise to disclose the reason why the government would issue letters patent on recent fiction; neither do I think the time opportune now; but if there be any question in the minds of any interested retailer, I would be pleased to submit absolute proof that a work of recent fiction can and has been patented. It is an admitted fact that the manufacturer of a patented article is given the right to dictate the retail price on his product, provided it be shown that he caused to be affixed thereto a notice to this effect. It would ill become the retail trade to belligerently demand that publishers patent and protect their new publications. Such a course would appear dictatorial. I rather think that the proper question to be asked of the publisher is the following: "Do you think it best for all concerned, that the publisher be given the privilege or right to fix the retail price on all new publications?" If the reply be an affirmative one, then the case is up to the retail trade not only to point out the manner of accomplishing the privilege, but to stand the expense also. We already have had numerous and lengthy decisions handed down by the courts bearing on this particular phase.

By the phrase "patenting a book" one must not have in mind its mechanical construction, such as binding, stamping, the quality of the paper, etc. This cannot be accomplished, as it would virtually be granting a monopoly to the first publisher to get letters patent. The patent would be issued solely on the phraseology, on the ground that it is something new and does not infringe another's patent.

Three weeks ago I received a message by telephone from Mr. Samuel Clemens, (Mark Twain,) inviting me up to his country residence to talk over the matter of patenting literature. I spent a very pleasant afternoon with the distinguished humorist, and with Albert Bigelow Paine, at his beautiful Italian villa "Innocence at Home;" but it is Mark Twain, the man of business, that I desire to speak of. I found him particularly well informed on the subject under discussion, and he gave me much valuable data; but as this communication is already lengthy I will have to offer it at another time. Suffice it to be said in conclusion fiction can be patented. Publishers can regulate the retail price of patented fiction.

Question—Would it be for the best of all concerned? Yours sincerely,

R. E. SHERWOOD.

NEW YORK CITY, September 29th, 1908.

[IT should be kept clearly in mind that the Supreme Court decisions do not prevent regulation of prices by contract, in the case of copyright books, but hold simply that a contract cannot be implied by notice as an incident of copyright. It is not clear that there is a distinction as between patents and copyrights in this respect. Mr. Sherwood's scheme of patenting books has been suggested before, but unless he has made a quite new discovery in patent law, we do not understand that this is practicable. The patent laws protect one class, the copyright laws another, in quite separate fields. Mr. Sherwood's suggestion that every bookseller should be a member of a State or other association is, of course, to be heartily commended.—ED. P. W.]

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

It is reported that Professor Fenellosa, who died in London on September 21 as he was about to sail for this country, left the manuscripts of a number of works on Japanese and Chinese art These are to be edited and published by the widow who is now on her way from England to the family home, Kobinata, Spring Hill Ala.

William Somerset Maugham, the playwriter, is a most prolific worker. No less than three plays and a novel were produced by him last year in England. His play, "Jack Straw," is attracting much attention from New York audience. The Baker & Taylor Co. will publish his novel, "The Explorer," early in 1909. The chief character in the novel is said to have been drawn from Cecil Rhodes. The love interest is charmingly supplied by an American widow, Mrs. Crowley.

T. M. Kettle, M.P., the translator and editor of "Contemporary Ireland," by Paul Dubois, is not unknown in the United States. As representative of the Irish National Party, he visited this country in 1907. He is a son of the late Andrew Kettle, who was an intimate friend of Parnell's. Mr. Kettle, although one of the youngest members of the British Parliament, is considered one of the most promising. Mr. Dubois's book is an important contribution to the literature on the subject. The author, a trained man of letters, is a nephew of Taine, the historian.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Berkeley, Cal.—The Dwight-Way Book Store has been purchased by F. E. Sadler.

Holland, Mich.—Henry Vander Ploeg, who is now in the Vennema Building, at 44 East Eighth Street, will shortly open up a fine bookstore in the new Wise Block. Mr. Vander Ploeg, five years ago, started in business, his stock being on a little shelf room in Cook Brothers' Music Store in the Vennema Building. When Cook Brothers moved Vander Ploeg ventured to enlarge his stock, and soon occupied the whole building. He won many friends through his quiet and courteous manners and by close and intelligent application to his business, so that he was crowded out of his old quarters for the want of room.

Pullman, Wash.—J. W. Tulles & Son have purchased the College Bookstore from the Pullman Stationery and Drug Company.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The International Journal of Ethics, heretofore published in Philadelphia, will hereafter bear the imprint of Sherman, French & Co., Boston, but its editor and its managing board will remain unchanged.

The Century Magazine next year will publish, in instalments, Augustus Saint-Gaudens's autobiography, which he wrote and dictated during the last years of his life. The Century has also made arrangements to publish next year a new serial by the author of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," entitled "Mr. Opp."

"Augustus Saint-Gaudens" is the subject of the special illustrated extra number of the International Studio published this week by John Lane Company. All the sculptor's important works are presented in full-page reproduction, with an appreciation by C. Lewis Hind and chronologies of the sculptor's life and works.

The October issue of The Grafton Magazine of History, the second to make its appearance, will contain interesting articles on "Rhinebeck and Some of Its Early Families," "The Life of Job Tyler of Andover," "The Early Ancestors of the Stratton Family," and many other articles of interest to historians and genealogists.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

H. M. Schroeter, 339½ South Hill Street, Los Angeles, Cal., is at work on a bibliography of the Rubáiyát of Omar Khayyám, in which he proposes to note all the translations, both into English and into foreign languages, of all the editions of the same. Such matter will be included as parodies, criticisms and essays, suggested by the tent worker's verses. The compiler would be glad to have communications from lovers of Omar, bringing to him information or carrying suggestions likely to aid his undertaking. It is planned to issue the work early next year, probably about March 31, the 100th anniversary of the birth of Edward FitzGerald.

The Macmillan Company have just brought out a work of interest to students and readers of the "Father of English Poetry," in Dr. Eleanor P. Hammond's "Chaucer, a Bibliographical Manual." The work is a survey of the Chaucerian field from 1400 to 1898. It lists and discusses the imitations of Chaucer characteristic of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, the biographies and editions of the sixteenth and seventeenth, the modernizations of the eighteenth, and the monographs and criticisms of the nineteenth century. The manuscripts are here first described in full; the earliest lives of the poet are reprinted; the data regarding the black letter editions, hitherto scattered or unpublished, are brought together. The history of disputed questions is summarized, and discussions of the Chaucerian text, the canon, the chronology of the tales, and the poet's versification are inserted. Much of the material printed in this volume appears for the first time in print, and an equally large portion has hitherto been accessible only in the pages of philological journals and academic dissertations.

CATALOGUES OF NEW AND SECOND-HAND BOOKS.

The Burnham Antique Store, Boston, Mass., Miscellaneous, including Americana and first editions. (No. 15, 934 titles.)

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

Don M. Parker, who left the McClure Company to act as eastern manager of The House Beautiful, has severed his connections with that periodical, and is now associated with the advertising department of McClure's Magazine.

Kegan Paul, Trench, Trübner & Co. have just ready an edition de luxe of Sir Edwin Arnold's "Light of Asia," on special hand-made paper. The feature of the book are some photographs, by Mrs. Eardley Wilmot, of Indian hill scenery, illustrating the Buddha country.

Mrs. Mary B. Ewing, 179 Prospect Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis., has just brought out a "History and Genealogy of the Kennan Family in America," by Thomas Lathrop Kennan. The work traces the line of descent to Elder William Brewster, who came over to America with the Pilgrims on the Mayflower.

Moffat, Yard & Co. will publish at once "Sappho in Boston," an interesting novel by an author of large experience who prefers to remain, in this venture, anonymous. The scene shifts to England in the latter part of the story. The novel is remarkably clean cut and brilliant, ending in a complete surprise.

E. C. Kropp Co., Milwaukee, Wis., have brought out two campaign souvenir postcards that, while attractive, will please the adherents of either the Republican or Democratic parties. They have also published two neat Christmas cards, one with Correggio's Madonna in colors and the other with a sprig of holly in gold and colors.

The C. M. Clark Company announce a book for children, entitled "The Trail of the Go-Hawk," by Miss Emilie Blackmore Stapp, a story in which certain bad children make their "aunt, their dear unmarried aunt," the prize in a raffle, having decided that she ought to have a lover. The story is to have colored plates and a holiday binding.

George E. Littlefield, 67 Cornhill Boston, Mass., has just brought out a volume entitled "Three Historical Addresses at Groton, Mass.," by Dr. Samuel Abbott Green. The addresses contained in the volume were delivered on as many different occasions and were originally published in pamphlet form in small editions. They have long been out of print.

B. W. Dodge & Co. have about ready a volume of short stories by Helen Green, who is on the staff of the Morning Telegraph, and will be remembered as the author of "At the Actors' Boarding House," also a volume of short stories. The new stories take the title "The Maison de Shine," from the Irving House boarding house, whose romances they chronicle.

A new English publishing company has been registered under the title of Sidgwick & Jackson, Limited, whose headquarters are at No. 3 Adam Street, Adelphi, London. Frank Sidgwick was formerly a partner in the firm of A. H. Bullen, many of whose publications will be taken over by the company. R. Cameron Jackson gained his business experience with Messrs. Hutchinson and Dent & Co.

J. B. Lippincott Company, encouraged by the splendid reception accorded the new holiday edition of George MacDonald's "The Princess and the Goblin," issued last year, have just brought out a uniform edition of this author's juvenile classic, "The Princess and Curdie." It contains twelve full-page illustrations in color by Maria L. Kirk, whose illustrations for "The Princess and the Goblin" were praised so highly.

The Cupples & Leon Company have just ready three books for young people—"Little Nemo," by Winsor McCay, which has been dramatized by Klaw and Erlanger to record-breaking audiences; "Buster Brown's Amusing Capers;" and "The Christmas Letter," by Sara Tawney Lefferts, author of "Mr. Cinnamon Bear," fully illustrated in colors. They will bring out on November 26, H. Rider Haggard's new novel, "The Yellow God."

The Grafton Press, New York City, has just ready "Early Christian Hymns," a collection of translations of notable Latin writers of the early and middle ages, by Daniel Joseph Donahoe. They will bring out this fall "Ah Moy, a Story of a Chinese Girl," which will be gotten up in a holiday edition; also, the "Story of Roger Williams," by E. J. Carpenter, the eleventh volume of the Grafton Historical Series, edited by Dr. H. R. Stiles.

James L. Perkins & Company, 15 Broad Street, New York City, have just bought from John D. Morris & Company, Philadelphia, their entire sheet and bound stock of de luxe editions of popular standard authors. Perkins & Company, in addition to their own line of sets, will continue to manufacture and wholesale the Morris line. The deal is said to be one of the largest and most important of its kind which has taken place in the trade for some time.

PAUL PFIZENMAYER, through J. C. & W. E. Powers, 65 Duane Street, New York City, has published in a neat pamphlet his address on "The Evolution of Printing," delivered before the Technical Publicity Association, November 11, 1907. Mr. Pfizenmayer interestingly traces the progress of the art of printing and correlated arts from Gutenberg's day to the present, and gives some plain advice as to how the present standard may be maintained if not advanced.

THE CONCORD PUBLISHING COMPANY, 308 Fourth Avenue, New York City, announce a "Life of Mary Baker Eddy," by Sibyl Wilbur. The author treats intimately the interesting events in Mrs. Eddy's career. She has authenticated her data from documents which have not hitherto been accessible to other writers on Mrs. Eddy's life. The volume includes also chapters on "The Mystery of the Quimby Manuscripts," "Discovery of the Principle of Christian Science" and "A Strange Conspiracy," and contains a number of illustrations.

THE Book Department of Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y., has brought out a reprint of the "History of the Town of Flatbush," Long Island, originally published in 1842, by the Rev. Dr. Thomas M. Strong, pastor of the Reformed Dutch Church of Flatbush. The original edition was limited to 500 copies, and has long been out of print. The Loeser edition preserves as far as possible the appearance of the first edition, and in addition to the five original illustrations gives two new views, a portrait of Dr. Strong and an index of names.

JOHN C. WINSTON COMPANY have just brought out in their series of Illustrated Photogravure Books a work entitled "Washington, the City and the Seat of Government," by C. H. Forbes-Lindsay. Aside from the photogravure feature it will be found to be a reliable history of the National Capital and a graphic description of its chief buildings and places of interest. The author, moreover, has not forgotten the human element, and has given a readable and gossipy account of the personages associated with Washington in the past and present.

THE TORCH PRESS, Grand Rapids, Mich., announce "A Compendium of the War of the Rebellion," compiled and arranged from official records of the Federal and Confederate armies, by Frederick H. Dyer, late Seventh Connecticut Volunteers. The matter is grouped under three heads—organization of the several commands of the U. S. Army, 1861-1865; record of the campaigns, battles, engagements, etc., in which each command was engaged, and a concise history of each regiment, etc., mustered by the several States for service in the Union Army from 1861-1865.

THE McCLURE COMPANY publish this week a novel by Anthony Partridge, entitled "The Distributors," in which is given the story of "Ghosts," a secret association of London dilettantes, whose odd doings form a satire on modern society in its search for new sensations. Another novel has its scene laid in Japan, where two Scotchmen become entangled in a love affair that is not without its original features. The story is by H. De Vere Stackpoole, and has for its title "The Crimson Azaleas." Another humorous tale by Ellis Parker Butler, the author of "Pigs is Pigs," having for its title "That Pup," is also just ready.

THE R. E. LEE COMPANY have in preparation "Magdalene," by J. S. Machar, translated from the Bohemian by Professor Leo Wiener. The production, according to its author, is a psychological novel, the heroine of which is introduced by a rather sorry specimen of the idle German civilian into his aunt's home, and presents to her friends, apparently thinking that if crossing the sea cannot change the mind, going under a new roof may effect a perfect transformation. The horror of scandalized friends, the vacillation and final discontent of the girl, and the man's discovery that his benevolence is pure folly, are set forth deliberately but incisively.

THE EMPIRE PUBLISHING COMPANY, 60 Wall Street, New York City, announce for publication, about the middle of October, "The Trial of Jesus from a Lawyer's Standpoint," by Walter M. Chandler, of the New York Bar. The work will appear in two volumes of 400 pages each, the first of which will be devoted to the Hebrew trial of Jesus before the Great Sanhedrin, and the second will deal with the Roman trials before Pontius Pilate, Roman governor of Judea, and Herod, Tetrarch of Galilee. As the title indicates, the treatment of the subject will be strictly legal and historical. The work will be adequately illustrated.

W. H. PARKER, New Haven, Conn., has added four new post-cards to his line of greeting cards. One is decorated with the seal of New Haven, in black and red, with the words "Greetings from New Haven;" the second has the state seal of Connecticut in black and green with the legend "Greetings from Connecticut;" the third bears the seal of Yale College, in blue and gold, with the words "Greetings from Yale." The fourth is particularly timely, having for its subject a view of the Noah Webster House, which should have more than a local interest. The cards are printed on good stock and are high-toned and first-class in every respect.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. publish to-day, October 10, the second volume of "Select Essays in Anglo-American Legal History," a comprehensive work, by various authors, to be completed in three volumes. They will publish on the 17th inst. a new book by Henry C. Shelley, author of "John Harvard," etc., entitled "Untrodden English Ways," in which he pictures in words and with his camera the romantic associations and natural beauties of many nooks and corners of his native land unfamiliar to the conventional traveller; also, the second volume of Jeremiah Curtin's important work on "The Mongols in Russia," which carries the history down to the break-up of the horde at Sarai in 1505.

PITTSBURG is the home town of Mary Roberts Rinehart, author of "The Circular Staircase." One of the bookstores there ran out of the book and, owing to a delayed shipment, found themselves on a certain Saturday quite out of stock. Fortunately, they had a supply of the paper jackets which they put over other books and thus continued their window display. Inadvertently one of the clerks was not told. People flocked to get "The Circular Staircase" for Sunday reading. Said clerk sold a dozen out of the window. On Monday morning twelve disgusted people brought in as many Latin grammars wrapped in "The Circular Staircase" covers, and demanded their money back!

H. M. CALDWELL COMPANY have just brought out a nugget of interest to book lovers in the volume entitled "Poems from Punch." The volume contains fifty-six poems printed in Punch from 1841 to 1884. Few of them have been traced to their authors, the exceptions being Hood's "Song of the Shirt," "The Prayer of the People;" Thackeray's "The Mahogany Tree," Percival Leigh's "The Pauper's Song," six of Shirley Brooke's lesser known poems, Tom Taylor's lines on Abrahim Lincoln, written at the time of his assassination, and the poem on "The Great Whaling Expedition," by Francis C. Burnand, who also wrote the introduction to the original publication of the poems in collected form.

NEWOLD PUBLISHING COMPANY, 225 Fifth Avenue, New York City, have ready for the holidays a small India paper edition of "The Complete Works of Edgar Allan Poe," with introduction and sketches by Richard Henry Stoddard, James Russell Lowell, N. P. Willis and G. Mercer Adam, and four full-page tinted half-tone illustrations, including a portrait of Poe. A number of the Poe letters included are autograph facsimiles. The publishers purchased some sets of sheets formerly published in four volumes which they now bring out in two volumes in limp morocco, with a new title-page with their own imprint. They hope these books will meet the demand fostered by the Poe centenary coming during next year.

THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY have added a third volume to the series of the Christy-Riley editions of "An Old Sweetheart of Mine" and "Out to Old Aunt Mary's." The whole range of Mr. Riley's poetry, (and it is a wide range now,) was searched to find a poem which might afford similar opportunities to the illustrator and equal pleasure to the reader. From many likely candidates "Home Again with Me" was selected as best fulfilling the requirements. Howard Chandler Christy has supplied forty-two attractive pictures, which show a return to his earlier manner. The decorations for the title-page, dedication page, half titles, text pages and end papers are by Franklin Booth. "Home Again with Me" is dedicated by the poet to William C. Bobbs.

THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO PRESS will bring out at once a book on "Primary Elections," by C. Edward Merriman, who traces the development of the legal regulation of party primaries from 1866 down to 1908, sums up the general tendencies evident in this movement, discusses some of the disputed points in the primary problem, and states certain conclusions in regard to our nominating machinery. The material employed has been the session laws of the states, the decisions of the courts, publications dealing with the theory or practice of the primary system, newspapers and periodicals, extensive correspondence and interviews with persons who had had special opportunities for judging the primary laws in the different states, and, finally, personal observation of the primary election process in several states.

CHARLES L. BOWMAN & CO., 44 East Twenty-third Street, New York City, have just ready a series of standard books published under the general title of Bowman's Illustrated Library of World-Favorite Books. There are sixteen titles, including "Tom Brown's School Days," "Gulliver's Travels," "John Halifax, Gentleman," "Tales from Shakespeare," by the Lambs; "Pilgrim's Progress," "Robinson Crusoe," "Henry Esmond," "Uncle Tom's Cabin," "The Wide, Wide World," Ballantyne's "The Dog Crusoe," Poe's "Tales," "The Swiss Family Robinson," "The Arabian Nights," Grimm's "Fairy Tales," "Don Quixote" and Aguilar's "The Days of Bruce." Each volume is crown octavo in size, neatly bound in cloth, and contains eight or more full-page original drawings by H. M. Brock, A. D. McCormick, Lancelot Speed and others.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO. have just ready "The Altar Stairs," by G. B. Lancester, whose "Sons of Men" and "The Spur" showed talent of high order. He has now written a tale of adventure in the South Seas in which a dominating man who has led a wild life finds himself subdued by a woman and then finds she is already the wife of another; also, "Desire," by Una L. Silberrad, the story of a self-reliant, impulsive, unconventional girl whom it is a privilege to know, told with all the charm of the author of "The Good Comrade." "Life's Handicap" is also now available in the pretty Pocket edition of Kipling. A work that shows the study that has been put into it by Alfred Holt Stone is "Studies in the Race Problem," a fundamental treatise on race conditions all over the world, especially on the negro problem, to which have been added three essays by Professor W. F. Willcox, of Cornell University.

L. C. PAGE & CO. have just brought out a new book by Miss Mary Caroline Crawford, entitled "St. Botolph's Town," a fascinating history of old Boston from the time of Blackstone, the first settler, to the outbreak of the American Revolution. The book is full of interesting illustrations and maps. They will publish October 20, "In Viking Land: Norway, Its People, Its Fjords and Its Fjelds," by Professor Will S. Monroe, whose "Turkey and the Turks" of last year proved him to have the true touch of a relator of travels. A feature of especial appeal in Professor Monroe's book is the large place he gives to matters of distinctly human interest, whereas many writers of books of travel have concerned themselves too much with the spot of earth they happened to select for description, and do not people that spot with picturesque and active human beings. The book is illustrated with reproductions from photographs collected by Professor Monroe during his visits to Norway.

THE OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS will publish shortly "Notes on the Early History of the Vulgate Gospels," by Dom John Chapman, which has special interest in view of the announcement of a new edition of the Vulgate that has been undertaken by the Benedictine order at the request of Pope Pius X. They also announce as nearly ready "Folk-Memory, or, the Continuity of British Archæology," by Walter Johnson. Since no one individual student can read, much less assimilate, the extensive literature of archæology, Mr. Johnson thinks that there must be those who would welcome a coordination and recombination of scattered facts selected from the great storehouse. To marshall such truths accurately, and to collate a few new facts, are the objects of this book, which contains a large number of illustrations by S. Harrowing and others. By folk-memory the author means the conscious or unconscious remembrance, by a people collectively, of ideas connected with the retention of rites and superstitions, habits and occupations.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have just ready the eagerly awaited "Diva's Ruby," the third book in F. Marion Crawford's series begun with "Fair Margaret" and continued in "The Primadonna;" "Over Bemerton's," by E. V. Lucas, the story of a middle-aged man who after thirty years in Buenos Ayres returns to London and takes up his abode over Bemerton's, a second-hand bookstore, where he becomes involved with a delightful set of people, and has a life devoted to bookish enthusiams, keen humor and observations on life in the style of Charles Lamb and the autocrat of the breakfast table; also, "The Gentleman," by Alfred Ollivant, a story of Lord Nelson's time, which is all over in three days, but gives vivid pictures of fighting and the sea, of which "the gentleman," a young dare-devil Irishman, is the hero. Other books just ready are "Home Life in Italy," by Lina Duff Gordon; "Venetia and Northern Italy," by G. Headlam; "Lollardy and the Reformation of England," by James Gairdner; "Poems," by Alfred P. Graves; "Buddhist Essays," by Paul Dahlke; "Geneva," painted by J. Hardwicke Lewis and May Hardwicke Lewis, described by Francis Gribble; "Haunts of Ancient Peace," by Alfred Austin; "Economic Zoology," by Herbert Osborn.

THE JOHN LANE COMPANY have just brought out a new book by Gilbert K. Chesterton, entitled "Ortho-doxy," in which he has followed his previous book, "Heretics," with his characteristic thought and expression. They have also just ready "Two Dianas in Alaska," by Agnes Herbert and A. Shikari, the women sportsmen who last year gave us "Experiences in Somaliland," whose new book shows many photographs of the scenery, the natives and the wild game of the region; "Some Women Loving or Luckless," by Teodor Wyzewa, under which women are included the queens of Henry VIII., Queen Caroline Matilda, Mary Wollstonecraft, Fanney Burney and others who in their day "lived and loved;" "Birds of the Plains," by Douglas Dewar, an addition to his studies of Indian birds, illustrated with photographs from living birds; and "Napoleon and the Archduke Charles," by F. Loraine Petre, who gives in detail the history of the Franco-Austrian campaign in the Valley of the Danube in 1809, a book illustrated with maps and plans and reproductions of photographs of battlefields. "The Crime of Sylvestre Bonnard," crowned by the French Academy in 1881, is added this week to the edition of Anatole France now being issued by this house.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS publish this week a new book by H. G. Wells, entitled "First and Last Things—a Confession of Faith and a Rule of Life." The author contends that a benevolent, one might say, a providential scheme is unfolding itself in human history. A great aspect of this scheme, as Mr. Wells apprehends it, is the development of man's sense of community with his kind, and a resultant flowering of richer human happiness and well-being. The beneficent possibilities of collectivism, of fraternal co-operation, are in his view well-night undreamed of. On the destructive side this book attacks the present régime of individualistic freebooting; on the constructive side it indicates the nature of the economic and social institutions which collectivism would establish. They have also just ready a new book by Dr. Horatio W. Dresser, entitled "A Physician to the Soul," in which the author of "The Power of Silence" and other books on the inner life applies the idealism of his previous volumes to individual problems, a portion of the book being devoted to the principles which underlie the work of adaptation to individual needs, the remainder being addressed to those who have individual problems to solve; also, "A Canyon Voyage," the narrative of the second Powell expedition down the Green-Colorado River from Wyoming and the explorations on land in the years 1871 and 1872, by Frederick S. Dellenbaugh, assistant topographer and the artist of the expedition.

B. W. HUEBSCH will publish this month a work on "The Spiritual Significance of Modern Socialism," by John Spargo, in which the great movement which the author represents is shown in an altogether new light. Mr.

Huebsch has in preparation "The Spy, the Story of a Superfluous Man," by Maxim Gorky, a story of Russian life of to-day, translated with the sanction of the author by Thomas Seltzer; "Art and the Human Spirit," by Edward Howard Griggs, a handbook to a course of eight lectures on the meaning and relations of sculpture, painting and poetry to be delivered during the season 1908-1909, in New York, Boston, Chicago and elsewhere in this country; "Self-Measurement, a Scale of Human Values, with Directions for Personal Application," a new volume in The Art of Life Series, by William De Witt Hyde, whose thesis is that an estimate of man can be conducted scientifically; "Product and Climax," by Simon Nelson Patten, who contrasts the enormous output of industry and the grind of the workers with the small output of human happiness, which will also appear in The Art of Life Series; "The Development of Christianity," by the late Otto Pfleiderer, in an authorized translation by Daniel A. Huebsch, which will form the third and last book in the series of popular religious-historical lectures by this great German thinker; also, "The Commonwealth of Man," by Nathaniel Schmidt, an illuminating forecast by one of the leading ethical leaders, philologists and economists of the present time.

Harper & Brothers have just ready "The Shadow World," by Hamlin Garland, the amazing accounts of his own experiments and those of European scientists which have been appearing for some time in Everybody's Magazine; Henry Mills Alden's "Magazine Writing and the New Literature;" and William Dean Howells's "Roman Holidays." They announce for immediate publication John Kendrick Bangs's "The Genial Idiot," in which one of the most popular characters created by Mr. Bangs criticises everything under the sun in inimitable fashion; "The Witching Hour," a novel prepared by Augustus Thomas himself from his most popular play; "An Immortal Soul," by W. H. Mallock, which gives a picture of English provincial life and a heroine who is "different," and will make all who enjoyed "A Human Document" and other stories rejoice that the writer of serious philosophy and economics once more has provided romance; "Davie and Elizabeth," the story of an old couple, by Muriel Campbell Dyar; and finally "Lorna Doone" is to appear in a Dooneland edition, edited by H. Snowden Ward, while Mrs. Catherine Weed Ward has collected fifty telling illustrations for this most beloved of the minor classics. For young people there will be put out during the month "Little Ned Happy and Flora," by Gertrude Smith; "The Eagle Badge," a story for boys of the Maine woods, by Holman Day; and "Kidnapped Campers," also for boys, by Mrs. John H. Canfield, wife of the librarian of Columbia University. A bewitching little farce story of Margaret Cameron's will be called "The Bachelor and the Baby."

Thomas Whittaker, Inc., have just brought out "The Love of the Trinity," a collection of mission sermons preached by the Bishop of London during the past year which follow very largely the plan of his well-known books, "The Call of the Father" and "A Mission of the Spirit," of which new editions have just been made ready; "Mission Preaching for a Year," eighty mission sermons by such eminent preachers of the English church as the Bishop of London, Scott Holland, Archdeacon Sinclair and others, edited by the Rev. W. Henry Hunt, suitable for the period from the twenty-first Sunday after Trinity to Advent, with additional sermons for special occasions; "Side Lights on Religion," by the Rev. J. Brierley, author of "Studies of the Soul," etc.; "A Priest of the Temple," by George Herbert, with an introduction and notes by the Bishop of North Carolina; "The Revelation of Things That Are," addresses and sermons by the Rev. H. H. Gowen, author of "The Day of His Coming;" "The Cure of Souls," by the Rev. Dr. W. H. Milton, sermons on the religious aspect of the Emmanuel movement, with an introduction by Bishop Randolph; "Report of the Detroit Church Congress," containing the speeches and addresses in full, including those of Drs. Worcester and McComb on the Emmanuel movement; "The Children's Daily Service," a year book for every day; "Sunday" for 1909, a big book full of pictures and text; also, a "Model of a Two-Cylinder Motor Cycle," with a brief description of the working parts, by W. Hantzschel, the whole in strong cardboard binding measuring 9½ x 13¼ inches.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers, under their own names, are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, or those advertising anonymously, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line. All objectionable books will be excluded so far as they come under our notice.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No reduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no account must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash.]

☞ Write your wants plainly, and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay" booksellers should take the usual precautions, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

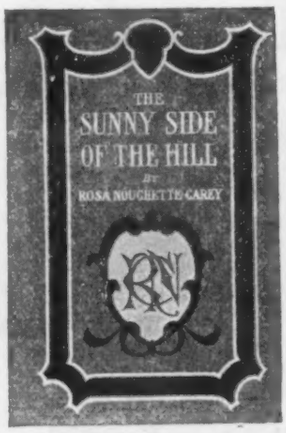
NOW READY—THE NEW CAREY NOVEL

The Sunny Side of the Hill

By ROSA NOUCHETTE CAREY

Author of "The Angel of Forgiveness," "No Friend Like a Sister," etc.



MISS CAREY'S stories are always wholesome, a quality that has won for her thousands of readers among young women who have outgrown childish literature. "The Sunny Side of the Hill" is true to its title—a simple, refreshing story, with an English setting of blue skies and village country-life. Maureen Brydon, the favorite daughter of a large family, goes to live with a rich maiden aunt, who craves companionship. Aunt Margaret, unlike most maiden aunts, turns out to be the most delightful comrade, and, instead of loneliness and ennui, the girl enters upon a most charming existence. There are automobile rides, picnics, and garden parties sufficient to satisfy the most exacting of girlish appetites—and the love stories, of which there are several, are all brought to happy conclusions.
